FAMILIES FIRST PARENT EDUCATION CLASS (DALLAS)

Parent Education Classes (4 hours)

“Families First” is a four-hour course courts order to educate parents about co-parenting. The program focuses on concerns parents have about separation and/or divorce, healthy co-parenting, and the impact on children. Using a hands-on approach, instructors provide information through lecture, video, role play and discussion. Since there are many types of learners, this interactive format uses a variety of teaching styles and tools to deliver critical information to help parents learn to co-parent and navigate separation/divorce in a way that best supports their children. The following topics are addressed: co-parenting, safety and conflict management, emotional effects and reactions to separation and divorce, responding to children’s needs developmentally, and financial responsibilities of parenting. Referrals are provided to participants. This course satisfies the Texas Family Code Requirement, Sec. 105.009.

Children’s Classes (Optional children’s programming: 4 hours)

Optional, concurrent four-hour sessions for children, ages 6 through 13, of parents attending Families First will be available on first come, first served basis. Family Compass staff will provide structured activities based on children’s needs. The classes cover elementary communication skills, learning to identify and cope with emotions, and how to foster positive self-image.
